

Home > Local News

Bastrop commissioners approve incentives for airport

75 percent of county property taxes would be refunded over 30 years

ENLARGE PHOTO

LATEST LOCAL NEWS »

- ▶ Briefs: Man gets 55 years for robbing elderly clerk; arrests in ice cream attack
Updated 1:03 a.m.
- ▶ Fixed! Horse washing stops in East Austin; woman gets help feeding Manor strays
11:13 p.m. Tuesday
- ▶ Powell executed for 1978 slaying of police officer
Updated 12:46 a.m.
- ▶ Austin school board picks group to aid in quest for federal grant
Updated 12:59 a.m.
- ▶ PEC members, candidates sound off on Juan Garza termination 10:23 p.m. Tuesday
Latest local news and last 7 days of headlines

MORE ON STATESMAN.COM »

- ▶ Style Matters
  - ▶ Sizzling fashion shows
  - ▶ Stewing, dying and believing
  - ▶ Interleague baseball roundup
  - ▶ Lakers force Game 7
  - ▶ Treanor's triple in 9th lifts Rangers
  - ▶ Pledges made, Big 12 drama dies down
- More

By Suzannah Gonzales
 AMERICAN-STATESMAN STAFF

Updated: 1:09 a.m. Tuesday, June 15, 2010
 Published: 9:32 p.m. Monday, June 14, 2010

Post a Comment | E-mail | Print | Share | Larger Type

Bastrop County commissioners unanimously approved incentives Monday for a proposed $150 million private airport and business complex in the western part of the county.

The county would refund 75 percent of county property taxes for the proposed airport over 30 years as part of an agreement with the project's developer.

The airport is far from a done deal — parts of the project still must be approved by the county and federal regulators — but the commissioners' incentive offer is a significant step.

"This was done with the taxpayers' concerns in front of it," said Lee Diddy, commissioner of Precinct 4, where the proposed site of the airport is located. "Both sides acted in good faith. I feel very comfortable with this agreement."

Diddy said public money will not be used to build the airport and related improvements.

Jim Carpenter, managing partner of Central Texas Airport LLC, the would-be developer of the airport, said, "The Central Texas Airport completes the missing infrastructure asset that was needed for Central Texas." Carpenter began discussions with the county on the project at least a year ago.

He said the airport would help fill a need when an annual Formula One race comes to Austin, scheduled to begin in 2012.

"Formula One will bring a tremendous demand for aviation," he said.

The proposed airport now includes plans for a 7,200-foot runway on about 1,100 acres, and will be for private chartered aircraft and business jets. According to the agreement, the airport cannot be a general commercial airport.

Some people who live near the proposed site are concerned about airport noise, flight patterns, declining property values and how the airport will be used.

"We are not happy about the proposed airport. We are not happy about the approval of this agreement," said Catherine Roberts, who lives south of the site and is president of the homeowners association for the River Crossing subdivision. "We just really hope this won't come to fruition."

The agreement pertains only to the first phase of the project, which county documents show includes the runway, 250,000 square feet of hangar space, a fuel farm, fire-and-rescue facilities and commercial development.

Under the agreement, construction of the first phase of the airport project would begin no later than June 30, 2012, and be finished no later than June 30, 2014.

Currently, the county receives about $4,000 in property taxes per year from the property, which is now agricultural land, proposed for the airport, county staff said.

The value of one-quarter of the property — the amount taxed under the agreement — would be significantly higher, according to county staff.

The county still must approve construction plans and the Federal Emergency Management Agency must approve changes to a flood plain on the property, which would need to be moved for the project.

Carpenter said he was waiting for the incentive agreement before proceeding with buying the property, but said Monday that he would go forward.

He said his company hopes to start construction before the end of the year and complete work by the end of 2011 or early 2012.

Aircraft maintenance services and green businesses are part of the overall airport plans, Carpenter said.

sgonzales@statesman.com; 445-3616

SEARCH
 Site Web Archive Web Search by YAHOO!

LATEST NEWS GALLERIES »

MOST POPULAR

- ▶ Powell executed for 1978 slaying of police officer
- ▶ Central Texas Digest: Man gets 55 years for robbing elderly clerk; arrests in ice cream attack
- ▶ We know Big 12's teams are good, but what about its word?
- ▶ Sizing up winners, losers of conference 'expansion'

LATEST AP TEXAS NEWS »

- ▶ BP says it's sorry _ and guarantees $20B for Gulf
Updated 4:58 p.m.
- ▶ Big 12 wheeling, dealing explained Updated 4:52 p.m.
- ▶ Spill coverage barriers remain despite promises
Updated 4:52 p.m.
- ▶ AP NEWS: Texas | Nation | World | Sports | Business | Entertainment

StatesmanJobs in partnership with YAHOO! hotjobs
 statesman.com/jobs

TOP JOBS

- CNAs and CAREGIVERS
Life Made Easy
Austin, TX
- Dishwashers
AMERICAN CRUISE LINES
Austin, TX
- HVAC Sales Reps
ARS
Austin, TX

VIEW ALL TOP JOBS | SEARCH FOR A JOB

FROM OUR NEWS PARTNERS

- ▶ Dad accused of forcing 11-year-old to steal
- ▶ 911 had wrong address in Pittsburgh baby's death
- ▶ Woman kidnapped 18 years ago has no interest in seeing dad
- ▶ Death-bed wedding, will of oil heiress challenged by brother
- ▶ ATF blows hole in Charlotte biker club
- ▶ Texas executes man 32-years after slaying of police officer
- ▶ Controversy grows over officer seen punching woman in face
- ▶ Woman's body left on floor more than year
- ▶ Suspect smokes crack during arrest
- ▶ Boy, 5, abandoned after beer run pursuit